By Bimal Krishna Matilal : Perception: An Essay on Classical Indian Theories of Knowledge (Clarendon Paperbacks) empathy and sympathy in ethics the distinction between empathy and sympathy in the context of ethics is a dynamic and challenging one I celebrate myself and sing myself and what I assume you shall assume for every atom belonging to me as good belongs to you I loaf and invite my soul Perception: An Essay on Classical Indian Theories of Knowledge (Clarendon Paperbacks):

0 of 0 review helpful Five Stars By Kurt Pond excellent text and service 19 of 19 review helpful An excellent example of comparative philosophy By A Customer This book is a superb example of comparative philosophy It is both an excellent introduction to Indian philosophies of knowledge albeit at a somewhat advanced level and as a review of some of the problems germane This book is a defence of a form of realism which stands closest to that upheld by the Nyaya Vaisheshika school in classical India The author presents the Nyaya view and critically examines it against that of its traditional opponent the Buddhist version of phenomenalism and idealism His reconstruction of Nyaya arguments meets not only traditional Buddhist objections but also those of modern sense data representationalists The dispute between the Buddhist and Nyaya schools In this masterful and elegant essay B K Matilal probes and contrasts Nyaya realism and Buddhist phenomenalism as found in the mind only school of Yogacara An important contribution to cross cultural philosophical studies this work will be of interest
